LITERATURE.

POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY.

Herbert Spencer gives his attention, in the leading article in The Popular Science Monthly for July to The Great Political Superstition of the divine right of parliaments. He shows, contrary to the assertions of many eminent publicists, that rights exist antecedently to any laws; that laws are only recognitions and vindications of those antecedent rights; and that consequently they are valid only as they conform to them, or as they possess the "ethical sanction" derivable from the laws of human life as carried on under social conditions. The Rev. George G. Lyon presents an interesting view of The New Theology, as a development from the old, corresponding with the growth in human powers of comprehension, not contradictory but harmonious with it, and "reformatory rather than revolutionary in its teachings and tendencies." Professor Woodward, of Washington University, shows what are the Fruits of Manual Training as given in that institution, as observed in the better intellectual and moral development and practical fitness of the pupils. M. M. Guyau answers the question, Are Science and Art antagonistic? in the negative, and shows that science is helpful to every branch of art. A most satisfactory account of The Volcanic Eruption of Krakatau and its effects, illustrated with maps, is given from the "Proceedings" of the Royal Geographical Society. Perhaps the most important paper in the number is M. Pasteur's account, given before the French Academy of Sciences, of his discovery of The Prevention of Hydrophobia by inoculation. Mr. D. P. Penhallow, of McGill University, contributes a valuable article on Diseases of Plants. The portrait and sketch are of the eminent old Arabian philosopher Averroes, the portrait being a copy of the picture in the Vatican ascribed to Raphael. Dr. S. A. Fisk appraises the merits of Colorado as a residence for invalids. The editor at his "Table" discusses The Survival of Political Superstitions, and President Eliot's address at Johns Hopkins University, on What is a Liberal Education?

New York: D. Appleton & Company.

ATLANTIC MONTHLY.

The Atlantic for July opens with a capital short story by W. H. Bishop. It is entitled Choy Susan, and relates graphically Pacific Coast adventures and love making. Dr. Mitchell's excellent serial, In War Time, progresses satisfactorily, and will be, when completed, an unusually good and readable novel. Mrs. E. D. R. Biancardi describes The Haunts of Galileo. The classic article is by William C. Lawton, The Underworld in Homer, Virgil and Dante. O. H. Durward contributes a striking story, Beaten by a Giant. Harriet Waters Preston in The Gospel of Defeat writes of Amiel, Senancour (author of Obermann), and Biran. Bradford Torrey has a charming outdoor paper on Bird Gazing in the White Mountains. A Cook's Tourist in Spain contributes the first of two papers of travel. "The Growing Power of Chile" describes succinctly the growth and audacious pluck of the South American Yankee State. A. F. Matthews writes of Chimes, and How they are rung. There are poems by Mr. Aldrich and Elliot C. True, a full chapter of reviews of new books, and seven brief essays in the Contributors' Club.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY.

This magazine for July is really what its name claims for it, and each number should increase in popularity for the publisher is constantly adding to its attractive features. The contributors to this number are: J. N. Ingram, Evert A. Duyckinck, Dr. Robert Brown, Herman Merivale, Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood, Philip Bourke Marston, Spencer W. Cone, Alvin S. Southworth, T. C. Irwin, Etta W. Pierce, and other celebrated writers, and the contents embrace articles of great interest and replete with information—serial and short stories, sketches, adventures, poems, etc., and a miscellany instructive and entertaining. Aus Ralla and The Colonial Confederation, The Sons of Liberty, and New York City in their Time, Two American Ships, How Plants were Distributed over the Earth, and some of the leading features of the present number. There are 128 quarto pages, over 100 illustrations, and a beautifully colored frontispiece, The Feather in her Cap.

Address, Mrs. Frank Leslie, Publisher, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

ART AND LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. W. H. Beard is the author of some exceedingly humorous designs for cards which are accompanied with characteristic couplets. In these cards, owls, cats and bears seem to be having it all their own way.

A very handsome large-sized design has been executed for Prang by Miss L. B. Humphrey in honor of Whittier. It does not bear the likeness of the veteran poet but shows scenes from his works. Snow Bound being the subject of the front and Maud Muller and the Barefoot Boy figures on the back. This is the second of a series of poet cards to be issued at intervals, one of which (Longfellow) was published last year.

Sepia and gold have been used with much effect in the production of companion designs by L. W. Taylor. In one, a little child throws crumbs to the winter songsters; in the other the birds have taken refuge upon a sheltered wall, and crowd and nestle together in a most natural way, while a young girl sings the Christmas carol; the combination of tones is something of an innovation.

The Chautauqua movement has been extended to include the young folks, who already have a "Reading Union." They are now to have an illustrated periodical of high character, which will be issued in July by the publishers of the far-famed Wide Awake magazine, D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, who will send it free for two months to any of our readers who may request it.

The Water Troubles.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 27, '84.

Editors Herald:

Apropos of your article in THE HERALD of this date, I would respectfully submit the following: Water is wanted at the Twenty-first Ward hydrant. The people of that vicinity cannot even get water to drink in the day time, unless they choose to imbibe that from the ditch with its concomitant filth and cat-droppings. It is idle to say that there is any scarcity, when anyone who will use his eyes can see that the trouble arises from a lack of proper regulation. In proof of this, if anyone will take a walk past the premises of those who have the water laid on, and will notice the manner in many cases in which it is used, or rather wasted, being slashed around without stint or limit, run out of pipes without nozzles, and sprinklers allowed to run on the spot from morning to evening, doing no good to the owners or to anyone else.

Now, there are laws in existence supposed to be for the purpose of governing the supply of water from the mains, but as they are seldom, if ever, enforced there are few consumers who pay any attention to them, but waste the water according to their own sweet will and pleasure, not caring whether other people get any or not. There are also numbers of these people who only pay the water tax for household use, yet at the same time use it for sprinkling or irrigating their lots, without interference from any one.

This is why the people of the Twenty-first ward are deprived of drinking water, but it is not the water-wasters who are altogether to blame, but those who a duty it is to see that the statutes enacted by the City Council are enforced, and not treated with contempt, and to become a source of reproach to the city, instead of a benefit to its inhabitants, who are depending upon a just and equitable division of the water for their daily supply.

ONE WHO PAYS THE PIPER.

A Similar Instance.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 23, '84.

Editors Herald:

In this morning's HERALD a "Utah County Citizen" urges that a would-be murderer has been pardoned on petition of Federal officers and others, but not on petition of members of the community where his crime was committed. Now, in the eye of justice an attempted murderer is actually as guilty as a real murderer.

Some time ago there was a man in the penitentiary, sentenced to and confined there actually for the sake of his religion. Nothing could be said against him, except that he was a married man and that he labored honestly and diligently to support his family respectably. This man's pardon was petitioned for by many in the community where he resided. But the petition was refused, and he had to serve out his time. He was not a murderer, nor an attempted murderer. He was a sober, steady, moral, industrious, peaceable, God-fearing man. But he was sent to prison for conscience sake, and kept there until the set time of his term expired.

Thinking over these two and some other instances, I was reminded of a well-known circumstance that happened long ago. There was a sort of a trial and the presiding officer said, "Behold, I having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him." But the mob, instigated by the priests, exclaimed, "away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas," according to a festival custom. Now Barabbas was a notable thief and murderer, guilty also of sedition, and the presiding officer again offered to release Jesus in preference. But the mob cried, "crucify him, crucify him." Pilate said the third time, "Why what evil hath he done?" But the priests and the mob cried the more vehemently, "crucify him." And they did it, Barabbas, the murderer, being released in preference. The question was then asked, and it may be asked now, "If they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry?" We will wait and see.

A CLEAR HEAD.

"One year ago I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for indigestion, constipation, and headache, from which I had long been a great sufferer. Commencing with a dose of five pills, I found their action easy, and obtained prompt relief. In continuing their use, a single pill taken after dinner, daily, has been all the medicine I have required. AYER'S PILLS have kept my system regular and my head clear and benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried. Every person similarly afflicted should know their value." M. V. WATSON, 102 State St., Chicago, June 6, 1882.

For all diseases of the stomach and bowels, try AYER'S PILLS.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists.

THINK OF IT NOW!

Although much is said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, it may be possible that the subject has never seriously claimed your attention. Think of it now! Almost every person has some form of scrofulous poison latent in his veins. When this develops in Scrofulous Sores, Ulcers, or Eruptions, or in the form of Rheumatism, or Organic Diseases, the suffering that ensues is terrible. Hence the gratification of those who discover, as thousands yearly do, that will thoroughly eradicate this evil from the system.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

As well expect life without air as health without pure blood. Cleanse the blood with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists; $1, six bottles for $5.
